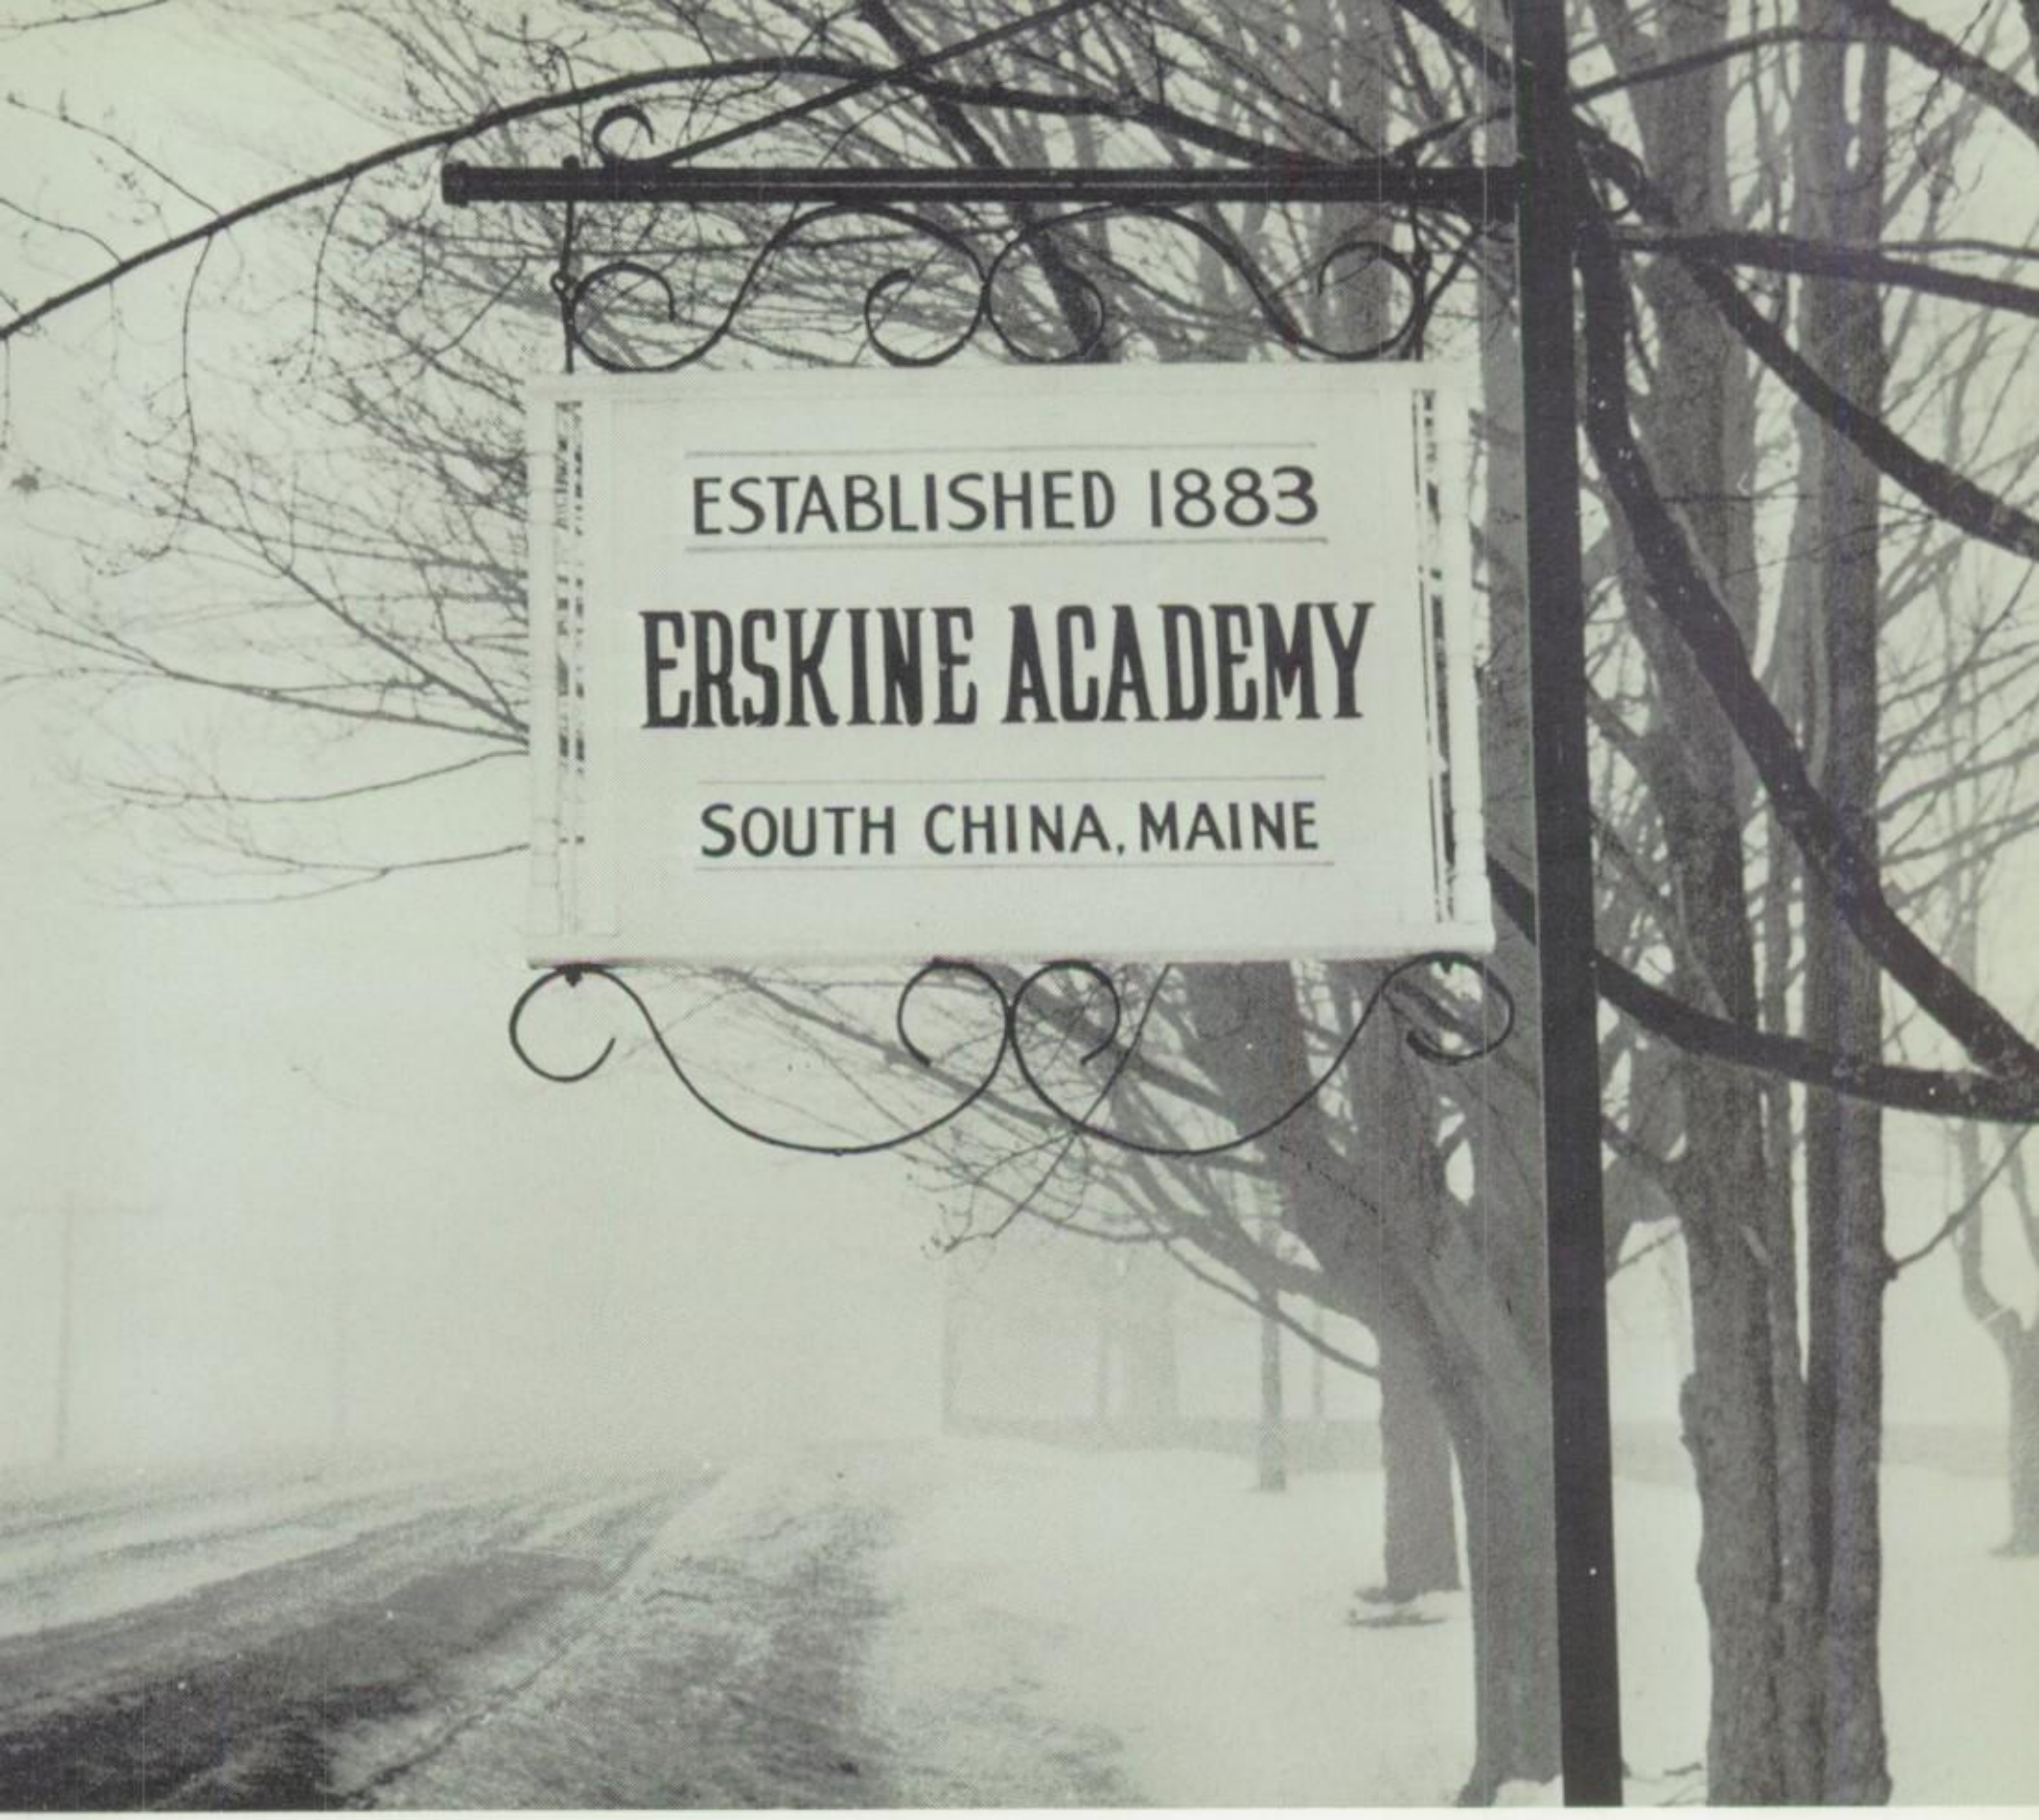
'64 PINNACLE



THE PINNACLE

Sponsored by the Senior Class
of
Erskine Academy

Dedication

We the Class of 1964 are indebted to the man who has proven to be a successful coach, an ambitious teacher and a welcomed friend throughout our four years at Erskine. In appreciation for his willingness to aid students, for his undying love of athletics, and for his reassuring smile, we do hereby dedicate our 1964 Pinnacle to Mr. Robert Coleman.

Principal's Message

To The Class of 1964:

I salute you who are about to graduate and give you due respect for having attained this plateau of learning.

As Freshmen you faced the four years of schooling with doubts, uncertainties, apprehension, and possibly a certain amount of temerity. Throughout your years here at Erskine, your hopes, aims, ambitions and spirits have fluctuated from one extreme to another.

As seniors you have leveled off and your paths are clearer, your goals are more definite and your futures are more defineable.

With mixed emotions you will think back over the past years, realizing the big problems of the yesterdays were only minor trivialities and the real problems are ahead as you prepare to face this fast moving world.

As civilization becomes more complex you will need to understand more fully what is just and unjust, what is truth and fiction, and what is important and unimportant. Life will be full of choices and it will tax your abilities to make the right decisions. You have learned to cherish and guard your right to live a full physical, moral and spiritual life.

May good luck and success follow you in your worth-while endeavors, and may you always show interest, pride and loyalty in your undertakings. You will then be a credit to your school, and asset to your community, and at peace with yourselves.

FACULTY

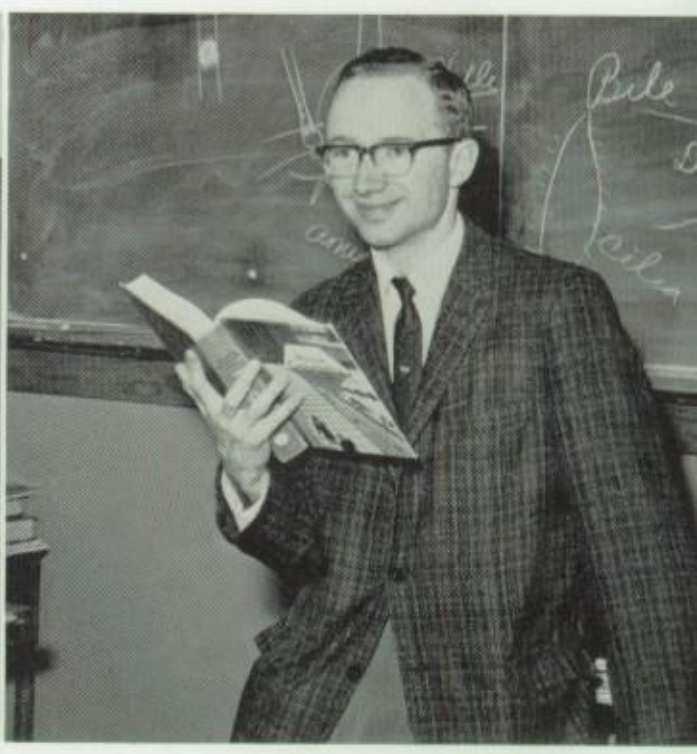
Are you really the Cheerios Kid, Mr. Thurston?

A way to a man's heart is through his stomach. Right, Miss Brown?

Disgusting situation, isn't it, Mr. Bradeen?

They just don't seem to understand, do they, Mr. Militano?

Do we really sing like canaries, Mrs. Cates?



Is that smile for the big four, Mr. Johnson?

It must be payday. Right, Mrs. Salmon?

But Mr. Mudar, there is no correlation between IQ and grades in school!

Do those boys always come to you for advice, Mr. Ricker?

Oh, come on, Mr. Winsor, let's go play Scrabble.

When are you going to teach us how to twist, Miss Erskine?

But that wall doesn't need your support, Mr. Kenoyer.

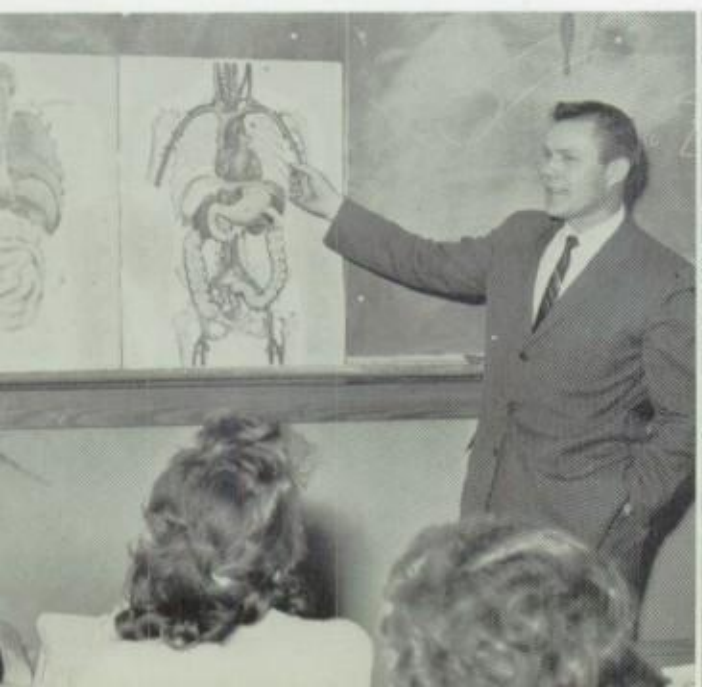
Is that a Yankee smile, Mr. Poole?

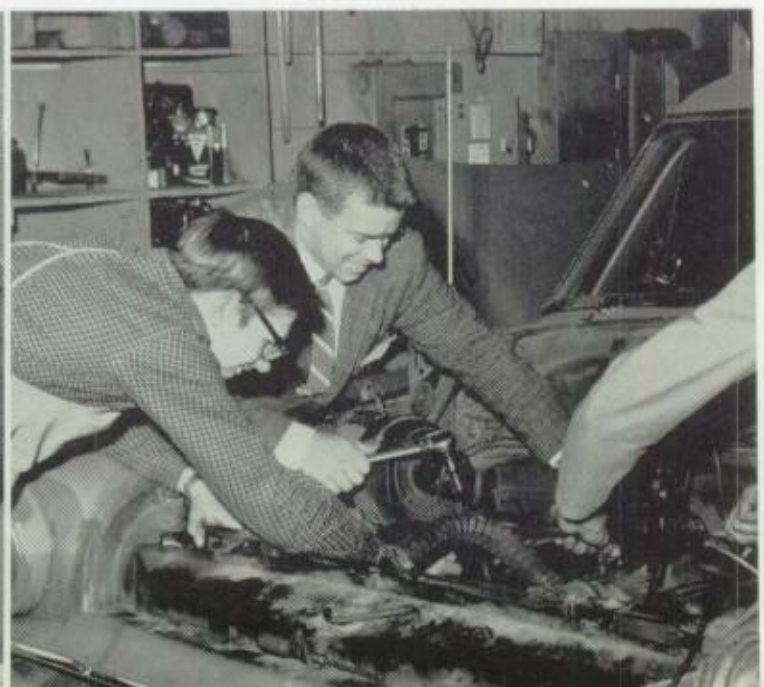
Would you repeat that again in English, Mrs. Austin?

Did your group really have 21 per cent fewer cavities, Mr. Russell?

Is that what a healthy basketball player looks like, Mr. Coleman?

Looks like it needs a woman's touch, Mr. Downer?





To the faculty go the thanks of the Class of 1964 for guidance, encouragement, and friendship; and from the faculty to these students go wishes for a golden future in the years that lie ahead.

Is that where you hide those important papers, Mrs. Parady?

Those books will have to wait 'til Monday, Mrs. Martin; it's Friday and the skiing's great at Sugarloaf.

Personnel

Students and faculty alike are grateful to the school personnel for the many little favors they do for each of us throughout the school year.

Did you make that yourself, Mr. Ingraham?

But, Mrs. Nowland, you and Mrs. Brann just couldn't have forgotten to cook dinner.

Bet you'll be glad when spring comes, Mr. Merrill.

Address to Underclassmen - - - - - TERRENCE WALSH

The Class of 1964 salutes its five top scholastic students. These students are a reminder to all of us that scholarship is the primary responsibility of the school and that excellence in this field is justly rewarded at Commencement.

Class night activities are the responsibility of students who are also good scholars. The program for class night includes the reading of the class history, the foretelling of the class prophesy, the distribution of class gifts, and the reading of the class will. The students selected for these honors are to be congratulated by all of us.

The Ideal World

We all dream at one time or another of what an ideal world would be like. We are forever searching our hearts and minds or a signpost marking the route to the wondrous world, the imaginary world, Utopia. Utopia symbolizes happiness, goodness, fairness and all we strive for in life.

This would be a world devoid of anger, prejudice, fear, hate, lust, and power. The haven of goodliness, love, beauty, righteousness, freedom, justice, and equality would be populated by people of perfection, people who know not the meaning of such commonplace words as hate or jealousy. The bodies of the inhabitants would be developed to the peak of human perfection, both physically and mentally. There would be no racial prejudice, crime, or social ladder, no fear of persecution for religious beliefs or no loss of personal liberties. All laws would be made by the entire populace. These laws for the good of all would be followed without question.

One walking the streets of a city in Utopia would see no prisons, reformatories, jails, court houses, or mental institutions for there is no crime or mental disease in this perfect world. He would see no slums for this is a world where each and every inhabitant works for the benefit of his fellow man. "All men are created equal." As for a social ladder, there is none. All people live together in perfect harmony sharing what they have with their brothers. There would be no nuclear or atomic weapons for there are no enemies in Utopia. All is peaceful, restful and quiet.

At all athletic contests, good sportsmanship is the prime factor. There are no brawls or fights in these contests. Harsh language is never used.

Liquor and tobacco are unknown to the Utopians. Disease is unknown due to the rapid advancement in the field of medical science. Scientists in Utopia are far advanced. Space has been conquered and planets suitable for human life have been discovered.

Education in Utopia is far advanced. All problems have been conquered.

If we were to create this imaginary world who in our own world would be chosen to populate it? Certainly no one in our own world is perfect. Everyone has some flaw regardless of how minor it is. Utopia is and will remain an imaginary world.

. . . to learn more about life around me, learn to be independent, learn for entering college and learn to get along with my classmates.

Bette Rowe

. . . to achieve a suitable background for college. This includes developing good study habits, taking worthwhile subjects, learning to get along with different kinds of people, helping my school to keep its well-earned reputation, and trying to make my parents proud of me and proud of my school.

Miriam Ulbrich

. . . to further my education, so I will be fully prepared for college and later life. I am also here to learn how to cooperate with other people, learn to take part in social activities, and to take an active part in athletics. Another purpose I have in mind is making lifelong friendships with my classmates. Having these purposes to strive for while at Erskine have made my four years interesting, enjoyable and easy ones.

AN INDIVIDUAL

Are you an individual? Can you stand on your own two feet and speak your mind, knowing that many do not agree with you? Are you able to take criticism as well as offer it? Are you strong enough to stand up for what you believe, no matter what?

Many of these questions are hard to answer. If you can answer all of these questions affirmatively then you are an individual. If you answer many of them negatively, I'm afraid that you are just one of the crowd, who tags along and follows the examples of others.

Sure, it's nice to be in style and have the same clothes, haircut, and jokes as the others in your crowd, but it's also nice to be yourself and express your own feelings, not someone elses.

I realize it's hard at times to stand up and say what you think when you know that if you do, a few people may be angry with you; however, the more you stand up for yourself, the sooner you gain your own identity.

Don't be like a sheep following a herd. Dare to be different. I know it takes courage and plenty of it, but in the end you will be a better person and also an individual.

CLASSES

March 30, 1964

Underclassmen:

Soon, we, the seniors, will be graduating from Erskine Academy, and we know that we will cherish the memories we have had. It has been great fun, and we have never regretted any of it. There have been hard times for all of us, and we have tried to do our best.

We now look forward to the great future ahead of us, whatever it may be. It will be a great challenge for us to go out into the big world. Many of us know what we want to do, but for some of us we are a little unsure. Now is the time we have to decide what we want to be. It is not easy to make up our minds, when there are so many things that are available for us.

Soon you will be graduating; we hope you will look back on your high school days and think of the fun it has been. Oh, there have been trivial times as well as good times, and we hope you will try to work out these problems the best way you know how.

Get all the advantages you can out of school, and remember, you may never go to school again. The few years you are in school are the best years of your lives. When you become seniors, think back and see what fun it has been; and we are sure you will agree with us.

"Busy as a bee" is a well known cliche to all of us; yet, it accurately describes the members of our junior class. This energetic group has sponsored many an activity here at Erskine including a successful Halloween Dance and Winter Carnival. In addition, the staff of the school newspaper is made up of members of the junior class.

Faculty advisors, Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Austin, can be proud of the contributions these students make to school activities and school morale.

A STORM AT SEA

Anyone who has sat on the rocks along the coast of Maine during a storm will surely never forget it. To feel the wind and the mist in your face, to see the huge grey waves of the night crash with a roar upon the stalwart rocks of the coast is truly a fascinating experience. It makes one think of the power in those waves, which are incessently pounding on the shore, and of what would happen to anything that got in their way. As one looks down the shoreline he sees a wave splash high into the air. The splash yields many brilliant colors in the light of a full moon, shining softly above. The sound of this spectacle is something I shall never forget either. Whenever I look at the sea from now on I shall hear this sound, reminding me of a stormy night at sea on the coast of Maine.

OUR ENGLISH CLASS

During period three,
There's a class in old room E.
Mrs. Austin, I am willing to bet,
Has acquainted us with Shakespeare's Hamlet.

She believes that students should work,
And never, never should they shirk.
She gives us themes and research
papers,
And reads to us of heros and traitors.

We love this class, with much to do,
And I will add without adieu,
That we will learn while in this class,
To go to college and more than pass.

WHISPERS IN THE CORRIDORS

Half the year is in the past
The first half certainly went fast.
We're all now veterans of Erskine High,
At earning marks we have to try.
Homework is now a familiar chore,
Even though sometimes it is a bore.
Girls are learning cooking is an art,
And in this are taking an active part.
In woodworking the boys are working steady,
And soon their projects will be ready.
English, math, and science classes,
Make us working lads and lasses.
And so in this year of 1964
We still have many and many a chore.

As sophomores, we are fast realizing how rapidly time flies. Our high school days are now half over and next year we will be important, busy juniors. This year was wonderful for all of us. We continued to adjust to high school classes, make friends, participate in school activities, and conquer the ever increasing fields of education. We look ahead to two more wonderful years at Erskine Academy.

My First Basketball Game

Brenda, Deloris, and I one day,
Decided to go out and really get gay.
We really didn't know what to do,
So we asked my ma to give us a clue.

She said when from town she came,
She saw a sign 'bout a basket game.
I never heard such a thing as that;
I thought she must be blind as a bat.

Deloris thought it was well worth-while
To take a look; town was only five miles.
We strode on through the deep, deep snow -
Where the place was - we didn't know!

Well, we got to town to see a crowd
Go into a hall like a big smoke cloud.
I looked up at a sign on the wall -
It said something about a basketball.

Brenda said it must be a basket round.
To me her reasoning wasn't too sound.
Deloris said it had a hole in the middle.
That seemed as far fetched as the cat and the fiddle.

We got to the door after a while.
The guy took our money with an extra large smile.
We went inside and it really was full;
We shoved and pushed and constantly pulled.

On the floor there were ten boys
That moved about with lots of joy.
Five of them were blue and white;
The others were of red so bright.

The blues had Eagles across their chests.
They moved about with lots of zest.
The red had Mustang written in white;
They were tall and bold with might.

We sat a while when all at a gasp
A striped man on his whistle gave a blast.
He looked kind of funny all black and white;
He looked like a zebra. Boy, what a sight!

Brenda suddenly shouted with glee,
"I see the ball! Oh, can't you see?"
The striped man took it in the center there,
And a Mustang and Eagle took it from the air.

An Eagle took and threw it at the floor;
He threw it, and threw it, and threw it some more.
He picked it up quickly and threw it away
When a Mustang stole it and laughed so gay.

He, too, threw it down at the floor,
And then into a BASKET up over the door.
"Boy," I said, "this game is good.
To get way up there, I never could."

Now the Eagles have possession of the ball.
It's number 22; he's not very tall.
He was throwing that ball just as before
When a Mustang knocked him down on the floor.

The striped man blew his whistle loud,
And then, oh, boy, you should'a heard the crowd.
Number 22 threw the ball,
And it went through the basket on the wall.

The crowd cheered and clapped
And some even waved their little red caps,
But we three girls only sat -
Sort of dumb, with our hands in our laps.

The ball went back and forth all night;
It was never ever out of their sight.
When the whistle blew and the buzzer rang,
All of the Mustangs jumped and sang.

The Eagles looked sad and down in the dumps
Maybe because of all their bumps.
The way the Mustangs acted untame
I guess they're the ones who won the game.

This has surely been a wonderful day,
For I am very glad to say
That I have seen my very first
Basketball game. I'm ready to burst!

Modern Art

Last summer while I was in Boston, I went to an art exhibit. The purpose of the exhibit was to display all types of art, but most of the paintings were abstract and impressionistic. Some of this "art" was really hard to believe.

There was one painting in particular which was, in my opinion, absolutely terrible! The canvas was about three feet square and was nearly completely covered with a combination of red, blue, and purple colors which were simply smeared on with no design whatsoever.

No description of this painting can really do it justice, but if someone took a raspberry, put it on a piece of white paper, and stepped on it, then I'm sure he would have a fairly accurate reproduction. Perhaps this is what the artist had in mind, because the title of his painting was "After the 3rd World Raspberry." I don't see what the "3rd World" has to do with it, but the "Raspberry" part is obvious!

This was probably all very symbolic and I'm sure a psychiatrist would say that the artist hated his mother or had a very lonely childhood. However, all of this symbolism makes very little sense to me. I think that the artist had much more materialistic aims. He probably just realized one of the idiosyncrasies peculiar to our society today - if you make something bad enough and expensive enough, people will buy it.

That Most Wonderful Feeling

Let me ask you what that most wonderful feeling in the world is. People sing about it. Poets write about it. Teen-agers live it. There are so many kinds of this wonderful feeling. Sometimes it brings destruction, and sometimes it changes the whole world.

Hitler had it, a great love - love for power. Because of this wonderful feeling, love, he caused much suffering, destroyed many lives and nearly ruined the world. This kind of love was only greed. Then there is the love of the mother for her children, the father for his son, brother for a sister. In this sense, love becomes pride and sacrifice.

As young people grow older their idea of love expands from family love to romantic love. Then they truly experience the wonderful feeling of love. It is easy for youth to find this wonderful feeling of romantic love because youth is already in love with life itself.

Sometimes the wonderful feeling is love for things or experiences. Doctors have great love for humanity and this love pushes them on to heal others; teachers have great love for learning and it leads them to shape and mold the characters of their pupils. Everyone has that deep love for his country which causes many to give their lives for their native land.

Perhaps the greatest love of all is brotherly love which our Lord tells us to have when he says, "Love thy neighbor as thyself and love thy God with all thy heart, thy mind and thy soul." When a person can experience this inspiring kind of love, then he truly has found that wonderful feeling which the poets sing of, and people dream of. This kind of love leads to peace and good will toward all nations, races, and creeds. This most wonderful, satisfying feeling of all loves could change the world.

NEW SEASON

When the days are warm
And the nights are cold,
When the rain comes
And the snow goes,
When the fields get green
Instead of white,
You'll know that spring
Is here all right.

Lee Cuthbertson

THE WHITE TOWER

There lay a wall of sheer white snow,
A tower higher than the sky,
But ever upward did we go,
To conquer or to die.

The bitter cold and winds wild force,
Were ever at our side,
But still we held our twisted course,
A course where others died.

One, two, three days had passed,
Our target was in sight,
A pillar of ice as tall as a mast,
But no longer could we fight.

The cold promised better things.
An end to pain and fear,
The peace that only death brings,
The demon that hung so near.

We saw the cause of all our plight,
Laughing in our path.
That pillar of ice so tall in height,
Our hearts were filled with wrath.

So on our stomachs we did crawl,
Until the top was near.
A few more feet up that cold wall,
Would bring an end to fear.

The top of the world,
Lay but three feet away,
Where a flag unfurled,
Would mark this day.

We're at the top,
The battle's won,
But we dare not stop,
Or we are done.

Our life's work's done; we've got our goal
Our long battle's come to an end.
The snow and ice have taken their toll,
God knows we'll die like men . . .

A bewildered group of Freshmen arrived at Erskine in September, 1963. They had a lot to learn about life as a high school student. There were activities to participate in, assignments to prepare, and responsibilities to be met. The change from grammar school to high school made adjustments a consuming part of the Freshman year but now each eagerly looks forward to next year - as a Sophomore.

The Young American

People say that the younger generation of today doesn't understand what responsibility we will have to face as a citizen. We have never been through a war. We will never know what it feels like to lose someone that has fought for the free and peaceful America.

Do we have to know terror and fear to love America? America is a large place and many people make it a wonderful place. There are the good and the bad, the strong and the weak, but whatever they are, they have chosen their faith in one way or another, and they are part of the cycle of society.

We are young and not as wise as our elders; but when it is time to face our responsibility we will be there. Every child that was born in America loves it and believes in it. All nations have their faults and America is no exception but she belongs to her people and the people belong to her, and we, the younger generation, as we become citizens of our country, will never let her down.

When our beloved president died it affected not only the old but the young too, for we knew that we had lost someone great, someone that was a symbol of America. The young went along with the old to pray for him. They mourned for him and showed their respect for him. This was a day of fear for us because he appealed to both the young and the old. The young people of today were more attached to him than any other president, since he was a symbol of our youth and a symbol of good we would become and do.

When it's time, and the time will come, we will be there to fight for our children and our elders, because we are the future of America; and the future will be good because we love America.

Ann Tabb

Patriotism

Every man's life is governed to a certain extent by reason and emotion. Have you ever considered how many different emotions control our lives and even our reason? I have not the time or space to tell the importance of all of them, but let us consider together just one. This emotion influences everyone's life, for everyone loves his country. Many are called to defend their country at some time in their lives.

But, I believe that patriotism is more than defending our country against an enemy or representing our country in the Olympics. I think that patriotism is a powerful word that many people don't understand. Have you ever stood on a mountain top and looked at the land (your land) that seemed to roll on endlessly before your eyes? Have you ever seen a tight formation of jets streak across the morning sky or heard the incessant drone of a cargo plane? Have you ever done one of the many everyday things and later be enlightened by the thought "I wouldn't have been able to accomplish this task in another country"? Have you stayed out on a cloudless night and watched a star go hurtling from one horizon to the other, that star sent aloft by motion? Do you stand erect and with your hand over your heart pledge allegiance to your flag feeling interest in every word. If you really live, then you have experienced that emotion, patriotism. The late President Kennedy expressed it when he said these immortal words, "Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country."

National Honor Society

Character, scholarship, leadership, service - these four qualities form the basis for initiation into National Honor Society. Membership in this organization, open to the junior and senior classes, is the result of careful evaluation of students by members of the faculty.

This year the group consisted of six members: Patti Glidden, Terry Walsh, Marium Ulbrich, Dwight Gilbert, Carol Prescott, and Margie Wood. On March 25 a tapping ceremony was held, and the following were welcomed as outstanding school citizens: Ernie Reed, Judy Wade, Mike Thurston, Lorraine Evans, Judy Banton, Bonnie Bumps, Sue Studley, George Nolin, Liz Dostie, Gloria Scates, Dwight Cooper, Lauret Fischer, Sandra Braley, Tommy Dinsmore, Bette Rowe.

Student Council

This year the Student Council has had many meetings with our advisor, Mr. Kenoyer. Our purpose is to promote better school spirit among the student body.

Early in the fall new members were elected by each class. Officers for the year were also selected.

In September the Student Council welcomed the Freshmen by sponsoring Freshman Initiation. All the Freshmen, as well as the entire student body and teachers, enjoyed the antics performed.

Junior Journal

School news, sports events, literary articles, and even gossip become the basis for newspaper training for our Junior Journal staff.

This energetic group spent many an afternoon cutting stencils and operating the duplicator. The result was a school paper, issued once a month throughout the school year, which kept the student body well informed. Congratulations to this group for a job well done.

1964 Magazine Drive

The annual magazine drive was held during the fall of 1963. Business managers for the drive were Patti Glidden and Floyd Jenkins. New profit for Erskine was $457.91. Fifty per cent of this profit went to school activities with the remaining fifty per cent going to the classes.

For their efforts in selling magazines, awards are presented to the top salesmen. This year Florence Wilson was top and received a record player. Second place went to Arvide Bumps who won a radio. Pat Morais was third high and received an overnight case.

All students are to be congratulated for the fine job they did. May next year's drive prove to be as successful as was this year's.

Winter Carnival

February 1 marked the beginning of a three-day Winter Carnival. Friday night the Alumnae girls were defeated by the Girls' Varsity Basketball team and Windsor defeated China. Saturday was highlighted by a ball with lovely Kathy Bradley as queen. Skating parties scheduled for Sunday were called off because of inclement weather.

Tension mounts as the candidates for queen await their entrance.

"... and a good time was had by all!"

What are the endmen up to?

Yes, she can really sing!

Those Wonderful Years

The 1963 Chic-a-la-ca Fair was presented in March of 1963. With the theme for the show "Those Wonderful Years," students staged a two-night performance. Songs, dances, readings, and jokes kept the capacity audiences entertained.

At the Minstrel Ball, Pam Libby was crowned queen. She was escorted to the dance by Don Tobey. The Checkmates were on hand to provide the music.

Thank you, Mrs. Cates, for the patience you displayed during our rehearsals.

Freshman Initiation

QUEEN MARY BILLING
KING LAURICE FRENCH

The 1963 Freshman Initiation was full of laughter for everyone. The girls dressed in men's long underwear, boxes tied around their waists and spaghetti mops, the latest in hair styles. The boys were dressed in leotards, flippers, and baby doll pajamas.

Antics performed by the new class of freshmen provided the evening entertainment for a capacity audience of parents, teachers, and upperclassmen. Crowned king and queen by members of the faculty were Mary Billing and Laurice French. The initiation ended with a record hop.

Junior-Senior Prom

In May, 1963, we the class of 1964 held the Junior-Senior prom.

We chose the theme, "Evening in Paris" and turned the gymnasium into a sidewalk cafe with even an Eiffel Tower.

The Checkmates provided the music to which the queen, Aurie Austin was crowned. Attending the lovely queen were Ann Roach, Nancy Bumps, Maxine Pine, and Mary Strout.

We wish sincerely to thank Mrs. Austin and all other people who made this dance possible.

Girls' State

Lauret Fischer and Sandra Braley represented Erskine Academy at Girls' State during the summer of 1963. Held at Colby College, this institution offers young girls throughout the state an opportunity to learn about government and citizenship.

Boys' State

Boys' State functions much as does Girls' State in its efforts to teach young people the value of political parties and how they operate. Terry Walsh and Tommy Maines were selected to attend during the 1963 session.

N.M.S.Q.T.

Erskine Academy is proud of Patti Glidden and Linda Jayes for their fine participation in the N.M.S.Q.T. (National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.).

SEATED: G. Rice, B. Weeks, T. Rodrigue, D. Newton, Mrs. Martin.
STANDING: S. Boisvert, P. Libby, L. Henderson, M. Wood, L. Sidelinger, S. Whittier.

Erskine Hall

Erskine Hall is a home-away-from home for girls who have to travel to attend the Academy. Here we work together to keep our dormitory a good place in which to live. This year we girls raffled off a free day of school. With the money, we bought Christmas decorations and furniture for the dormitory.

We girls really appreciate our new dormitory matron, Mrs. Martin. Thank you, Mrs. Martin, for all your help and guidance.

Book Store

Joyce Herbert and Gloria Collins keep the students of Erskine well supplied with candy bars and potato chips during the noon recess.

The book store proves to be one of the most popular places in school as students purchase those "goodies" necessary to replenish the energy lost during those morning classes.

Receptionists

Each year students volunteer to give up their study halls and become student receptionists. Their work in this capacity consists of picking up attendance slips, typing, and performing different office tasks to assist our school secretaries. In addition to helping our school personnel, the girls are gaining valuable on-the-job training in office procedures.

SEATED: J. Osborne. STANDING: L. Henderson, K. Kenoyer, F. Wilson, J. Wilcox, A. Welch.

Scrapbook Editors

Debbie Doe and Sarah Brann have assumed the task of searching through old newspapers for clippings about past and present students of Erskine. The clippings then fill the pages of a scrapbook which is a source of enjoyment for all. It is hoped that future editors will continue the fine job that has been done in the past.

Librarians

Librarians Lorraine Evans, Rosalie Choate, Theron Dudley, Donald Foster, and Carolyn Crummett review the procedure they are to follow in checking books out of our school library. The library, housed in Mrs. Austin's room, provides a variety of different types of books to meet the interests of all our students. As it continues to grow, we hope more and more students will find enjoyment in thumbing through its magazines and books.

SEATED: M. Brann, D. Doyon, L. McKiel, J. French, L. Pellerin, P. Tardiff, M. Brann, C. Allen, T. Gove, P. Conlogue, S. Grotton, V. Morrison, S. Parlin, L. Haskell, C. Dowe.

Girls' Glee Club

Mrs. Herbert Cates can be proud of the large proportion of the student body interested in singing. Enrollment was so large it was necessary to divide students into three groups this year - Girls' Glee Club, Boys' Glee Club and Special Glee Glub.

The Glee Club groups are probably the most active groups at Erskine. This year they gave a splendid performance at the senior play and also gave a commendable performance at the Christmas Concert. In addition to this they participated in Music Festival and Chic-a-la-ca.

STANDING: W. Mayo, T. Dudley, R. Fischer, T. Dyer, B. Taber, C. Cates.

This year, Erskine lost its beloved band director, Mr. Cimboleck, who died suddenly in October. Shortly thereafter Mrs. Herbert Cates became the new director.

The band consists of only a few members, but interest is beginning to mount and a number of students have commenced lessons recently. Where past students have taken lessons on the clarinet, trumpet, drums, and trombone, it is hoped that some of the other instruments that provide musical background for melody will soon become popular. Such instruments include alto and tenor saxophone, french horn, oboe, and bass clarinet. Any students showing an interest in music might consider starting lessons on one of these instruments.

SEATED: S. Bragg, L. Miller, L. Haskell, B. Weeks, T. Gurney.
STANDING: B. Rowe, Miss Brown, L. Dow, P. Waldron.

Arts and Crafts

"Go creative" is the theme of Erskine's arts and crafts class, newly formed this year. Under Miss Brown's guidance, projects in basketry, etched trays, mosaics, plastics and jewelry have been undertaken. The girls have shown a great deal of pride in all the projects they have worked on; but of special interest was a red knit hat made for and presented to Mr. Downer.

Thurston, Mr. Johnson.

Football

After losing a heartbreaker to Williams High, Erskine appeared to be off to a winning season. We won our next game and things looked bright, but luck was not with us for the Leavitt game. After that we beat Monmouth and the next three games were not as bad as the scores indicated.

With a larger turnout of players next year, Erskine could have its first winning season. The team of "1963-64" wishes to express thanks to Coach Coleman and his assistants, Mr. Poole and Mr. Johnson, for their fine efforts.

Varsity Basketball

We wish to express our thanks to Mr. Coleman for guiding us through a very fine season. This year we had one of the best records ever established at Erskine, winning 15 and losing only four. Our losses were to Williams, Rockport, and Camden twice.

Our starting line-up was Dewey Baker and Wayne Thomas as forwards; Mike Pearson at center; and Del Cooper and Tommy Maines as guards. Two very able reserves, who saw a lot of action, were Ken Allen and Don Tobey. Losing only three seniors, next year's team should also do well.

Girls' Basketball

Under the supervision of our new coach, Miss Erskine, the girls' basketball team of 1963-64 had a fairly good season winning four and losing eight. Our co-captains were Brenda Weeks and Deloris Newton.

Our thanks go to the people who provided transportation to our away games and to our managers, who did a fine job. A special thanks goes to Miss Erskine for her help and understanding.

Best of luck to next year's team.

J.V. Basketball

The Junior Varsity Basketball Team, with the assistance of Mr. Bradeen, had a very successful 1963-64 season. We ended the season with eleven wins and three losses. We were disappointed about our first loss, but we came back to win all the rest of the games except for two. The first two losses were against Williams and the last was against Monmouth.

Once again we all want to thank Mr. Bradeen for the help he gave us during our Junior Varsity season. Good luck next year!

Baseball '63

The 1963 baseball team under the direction of Mr. Coleman, provided fun and exercise for eighteen eager sports enthusiasts. Captain of the team was Al Turner.

The boys had a fairly good season, winning five out of nine games.

Good luck to the '64 team.

Varsity Cheerleaders

Peppy, energetic and cute - an appropriate description of our Erskine cheerleaders. Under the able leadership of head cheerleader, Sandra Braley, these girls deserve credit for the enthusiastic cheering sections at our football and basketball games.

As only two of this year's squad will graduate in June, there will be an experienced group of girls left to lead the cheering next year also.

Thanks go to Miss Brown for her guidance and encouragement. This year's squad wishes continued success to the cheerleaders next year.

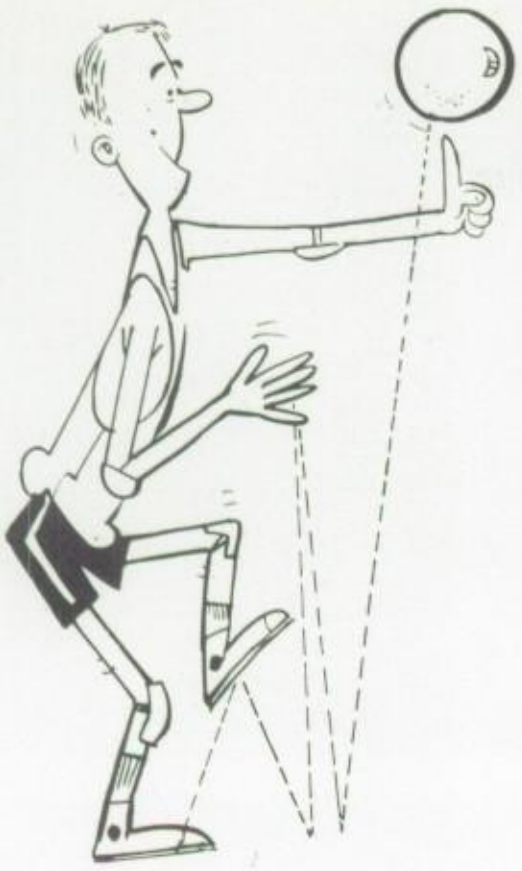
J.V. Cheerleaders

What is a J.V. Cheerleader? She is a girl with lots of spunk and stamina for she has a lot to learn. Some day she will perhaps be a Varsity Cheerleader but only if she endures the tedious perfection of jumps, yells, co-ordination, and spirit.

This year Erskine is proud of its J.V. squad. They have worked hard and will provide good material for next year's varsity. Besides the regular cheerleaders there are two substitutes who deserve much credit. These two girls are Linda Dowe and Donna Bourassa.

For her work as advisor to these girls, Miss Brown is to be commended. She can be proud for they have represented the school well.

THE THOUGHTS OF A BASKETBALL



What do you think of as a basketball? You may think it is only something round which bounces when you drop it on the floor. But, I ask you, what is a basketball? It might be a sphere which actually has life and feelings. Why a basketball might even think.

If a basketball could think, what, do you imagine, would be its thoughts in a game? Suppose Erskine Academy is practicing some afternoon when there is a scrimmage. The basketball might be thinking, "Ah, the game is starting. The referee is tossing me into the air for the jump ball. This makes me sick. Ouch! I wish Mike Pearson wouldn't tap me so hard. He got me right on the valve. Maines has me now. He dribbles hard, which really hurts. However, there is one good thing about him. When he shoots, he doesn't bother bouncing me around the rim. He simply swishes me! Oh, he's shooting me now. Swish! Boy, that is sheer ecstasy! Now Billy Cooper is taking me out of bounds. He's putting his cold palms on me. Take them off, Billy! Ah, here comes Coach Coleman. He'll show Bill how to handle me right. Now Bill is tossing me into bounds to Dick Grimshaw. Dick got a basket last time he had me. Here I come to Dick. Oops! He missed me. It was my fault though, I slipped right out of his hands. If you don't believe me, ask Dick.

"Well, the score is tied now with five seconds to go. Which basket will I go through? Which team will win? Pearson is tossing me in bounds to Maines. Hey, what's this? Grimshaw is intercepting me! He's doing a layup! It's good, and Dick wins the game!

"The game is over now. I wonder if I'll get to play some more? I guess not. Here comes Ed Thurston, the manager. I can tell that killjoy is going to put me away."

Jim Taber

"Will Pearson's team win?"

"Maines has me now."

1963 Commencement

In June, 1963, thirty-five young men and women became alumni of Erskine Academy. Diploma in hand, these young adults ended four years of education and courageously walked away from Erskine to meet the future.

Graduation is a wonderful moment for all. For the senior it is sad and tearful as each realizes the high school years are over. Yet, the cherished memory of a basketball game, a school social, or a friend's smile will remain in his mind forever.

For the teacher who has watched his students advance from scared freshmen to mature individuals with worthwhile ideals and goals, graduation is a proud moment. To him comes the realization that he has helped mold this graduate into a being capable of taking his place in society.

Parents, too, have their moment at graduation. Those trying moments of urging a child to study are now replaced with feelings of pride.

Graduation opens the door to a new way of life. For some, the way will lead to college where additional learning will continue to mold the character of the high school graduate. For some, it will lead to a place in the business world. To all, it will lead to a new life, bright because of those high school years.

Looks like Floyd didn't get the joke!

Problems come in pairs.

No, no, not pickle - fickle!

The world's greatest lover!

Isn't there an easier way out!

Are these high school students?

Alumni Notes

We, the alumni editors of the 1964 Pinnacle, wish to express our sincere gratitude to all the many people who have aided us in compiling the following information. We have tried to keep these statistics up to date and, to the best of our knowledge, they are.
